MARION PAYS DAY'S TRIBUTE TO WARS' DEAD

Parade One of Longest in Recent Years; Rev. Holloway Gives Address.

[illegible] citizenry of Marion city and county joined veterans of the Spanish American War, World War I and World War II in paying tribute to the war dead of [illegible] county and the nation in exercises held yesterday morning [illegible] Marion cemetery The traditional parade of veterans, patriotic organizations, lodges, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Army Recruiting station, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and school children, marched through flag-lined streets to the cemetery where Rev J. B Holloway pastor of Trinity Baptist church and a chaplain in World War II, gave the Memorial day address The parade, one of the largest in recent years, was viewed by several thousand persons in automobiles and standing along the line of march, and at the cemetery the audience was estimated at 1,500

Headed by state highway patrolmen city officials police and firemen the marchers were led by a color unit from the American Legion, Col. Hubert Taylor, grand marshal and his staff, Col R. E. Copeland, chief of staff, Lt Col L H Larsen, assistant chief of staff, and members of the general staff. Heading the divisions were Jewell Ralston, Fred F [illegible] and Capt Elmer E Smith Completing the third division was an automobile convoy bearing [illegible] O Midlam, president of the [illegible] John Moore, vice president, the Memorial day speakers, Gold Star mothers, widows of veterans, disabled veterans of all wars and Spanish American veterans

Music was by the Harding, Caledonia and Pleasant Township High school bands, and the Eagles band. In the parade was a marching unit from Porter-Snyder post at Waldo

Rev. Holloway's Address

"It is appropriate," Rev Holloway said in his address, "that a special day should be set apart when loved ones may visit those hallowed memory spots across the land where the last visible remains of dear ones have been deposited — there to place a floral tribute upon their graves and spend some time in solemn reflection — to breathe a prayer of grateful remembrance that God spared them to us through the span of their alloted years

This annual tribute of flowers in honor of the dead is a splendid American tradition which we have inherited from past generations and it must not be allowed to pass into oblivion through neglect or indifference It will not affect the dead but it will greatly bless the living The Creator has given us flowers as embroidery on nature's garments and as tokens of His gracious beneficence and love On nodding stem and waving branch God has hung the blossoms of snowy whiteness and of crimson hues as perpetual expression of His regard for us"

Describing Memorial Day as "primarily a patriotic celebration when a grateful nation delights to pay tribute to her noble sons who have given their lives in the cause of freedom," Rev Holloway said it also is an occasion when we [illegible] dedicate ourselves afresh to the fulfillment of their dreams and the realization of those ideals for which they gave their all

In the words of Lincoln he [illegible] "may we not also highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain' These words, he said were spoken about the men who fell in the Civil War, but Lincoln belongs not merely to the Civil War period but to all ages and his language here expresses a hope which springs eternal in every human breast.

Record of Democracy

In tracing the growth of democracy in this country from colonial days to the present time, the speaker pointed out that the flowers of religious freedom and democracy were transplanted as tender plants from a tyrannical environment in the old countries across the sea and were subjected to rigorous tests in their struggle for existence in the new world.

"This deal of liberty has taken deep root in American life and its promulgation and defense have brought the nation into six major conflicts in its brief history—the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812 the Civil War, the Spanish American War and two World Wars" he said. "They have not been fought always on our native soil nor in defense of our own shores or personal liberties, but as often on foreign soil in strong defense of the human rights of defenseless nations and downtrodden lands. Reject Lewis' Wage Demand

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 31—Soft coal operators representing 75 per cent of the bituminous industry said today they have rejected John L. Lewis' demands for a 35-cents an hour wage increase as "unreasonable"

Negotiations between the operators and Lewis for a new wage contract broke up suddenly after brief talks this morning, just one month before the government is scheduled to return the mines to private ownership direction

Unless negotiations are resumed and an agreement is reached by July 1, the 400,000 soft coal miners may walk out in mid-year in another bituminous shut-down The United Mine Workers traditionally do not work without a contract.

The operators representing mines of the north and west told a news conference that they had countered Lewis' demands with an offer to boost the miners hourly wage rates, 15 cents—from $1 18½ cents to $1 33½ cents

IDENTIFYING AIR VICTIMS HARD

No Faces Recognizable, Bodies Badly Burned or Shattered.

By The Associated Press

PORT DEPOSIT, Md, May 31—The grim, and in some cases probably hopeless task of identifying the 53 dead in America's worst air disaster, began today in a drab commissary room in the Navy's Bainbridge training center

The mutilated and dismembered bodies of the passengers and crew of an Eastern airlines transport which crashed last night three miles from Port Deposit all had reached the center by daylight.

At 9:33 a m the first identification was made It was the body of H Schifrin of New York City

Dental Work Only Hope

Only from dental work or personal trinkets was there any hope of identifying some of the dead who were hurled through a forest as the big ship struck and was shattered to bits

Dr R C Dodson, Cecil county medical examiner, said he recommended a mass burial, possibly at nearby West Nottingham cemetery, for the victims, 49 passengers and the crew of four

"We are making progress in identification," he said, "and hope to be more successful than we at first thought possible '

A visitor to the Bainbridge commissary, describing the bodies laid out on platforms about three inches from the ground, said that

RACE'S 2ND PLACER SAYS "LOUSY DEAL"

(More about Race on Page 12)

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31—Bill Holland of Bridgeport, Conn, who finished 32-seconds behind his team mate, Maur. Rose of Chicago, winner of the Memorial day 500-mile automobile classic, said today "It's the lousiest deal I ever got."

Holland, who led until the last few laps, got an 'ezy' signal from his pit crew and Rose passed him Both drove identical new four-cylinder cars owned by Lou Moore of Ventura, Calif

"The first time I knew I didn't win the race was when I pulled into the pits and heard the man on the loud speaker say, 'Holland second, ' the 39-year-old veteran of the dirt tracks said.

"I asked the men in my pit why they didn't tell me," he went on, "and they said, 'Moore wouldn't let us'"

Moore, who built the blue crown spark plug specials, told a reporter

"I had no preference. I gave both drivers the ezy signal. There are a lot of rumors going around I know. I'm sorry if there was any misunderstanding. Bill has a wonderful future"

Holland, who was competing in his first "500," gave his side of the story:

"All I was getting was the ezy signal. I thought I had a lap on Rose I was running half throttle when Rose went by. I waved to him. I guess I waved $10,000 to him ((That is the difference between first and second prize).

"I was going into the turns at 90 miles an hour after I got the ezy signal. I thought I had it in the bag. I would have won the race by a lap and a half. The next time I'll have my own money in the car."

All 41 Dead In N. Y. Disaster Not Identified

Relatives and Friends Completing Grim Task; Wind Shift Blamed.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 31—Relatives and friends sought today to complete identification of 41 persons killed in the holiday week-end crash of a DC-4 airliner near La Guardia field, which United Air Lines said probably was caused by a freak gust of wind "of almost unbelievable suddenness '

The other seven persons on the plane, which crashed and burned before a takeoff for Cleveland Thursday night, remained in hospitals, four of them in critical conditions

J A Herlihy, vice president of operations for United Air Lines said last night in a statement that the pilot had tried to halt the plane when it failed to lift

A preliminary civil aeronautics board report also said the pilot attempted to stop the plane, whose crash was the nation's worst commercial airline disaster until last night's crash in Maryland which took 53 lives

Sudden Wind Blamed

"A study of weather conditions which prevailed at the time,' Herlihy said, indicates that the probable cause of the accident was a wind shift of almost unbelievable suddenness"

Herlihy said the direction of the takeoff—being attempted as the New York area had thunderstorm clouds, rain and strong wind gusts—was away from a squall-line' which was visible in the west

"It is believed ' he said, 'that a freak gust of wind slightly in advance of the approaching squall-line was responsible for the accident To my knowledge, this has never before caused a fatal accident to a plane of this type or, in fact, to any large transport plane

Herlihy quoted the pilot, Capt Benton R Baldwin of New York City, who was hospitalized, as saying he "could not gain enough air speed to lift the plane off the runway prior to using up a considerable portion of the runway '

Cut All Power

"Seeing that he was not going to be able to make a safe take-off' Herlihy continued the quotation, 'he commanded the first officer to cut all power while he applied full brakes and attempted to ground loop (turn sideways) the plane

"His efforts were unsuccessful and the plane rolled through the boundary of the airport, across Grand Central parkway, and came to rest in swampy ground just south of the airport whereupon it immediately burst into flame"

Approximately the same details were given in the preliminary CAB report to Washington which was released here by George Gay, chief of the first region of the CAB

The CAB report said in part 'Positive evidence wind shift occurred during takeoff run Pilot states no apparent malfunctioning of aircraft or engine Pilot was advised of approaching wind shifts prior to takeoff"

Decides Against Takeoff

According to reports of the crash, the pilot decided not to takeoff when the four-engined plane, carrying 44 passengers and four crew members, had traveled 2,500 feet along the 7,500-foot runway

Hearings into the cause of the crash will be held here, Gay said In addition to the CAB, the disaster was being investigated by the civil aeronautics administration and the New York City police department's aviation bureau.

The 40 dead included 38 passengers and two crew members.

Extraordinary emotional control was exhibited by relatives and friends as they identified the dead at the morgue of Queens General hospital in Jamaica. Some came from distant cities, and were aided by police and three assistant medical examiners.

Jewelry Aids Used

Jewelry and other personal items were assembled with data to aid in identification of bodies Otherwise, the task would have been virtually impossible because most of the bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Thirty-eight persons perished in the flames, and the death toll rose to 39 when Theodore A. Alexay, 27, Yonkers, N. Y., chemist, died in a hospital early yesterday. Alexay, a Navy lieutenant in the war, had boarded the plane bound for Cleveland where he was to have been married today.

His fiancee, Ruth Sentner, of Cleveland, flew here immediately after learning he was injured, and arrived two hours after he died.

The toll rose to 40 early today when a passenger, Charles J. Shannon, of East Elmhurst,

MARYLAND DISASTER CLAIMS 53; RANKS AS HISTORY'S WORST

By The Associated Press

PORT DEPOSIT, Md, May 31—Grim investigators today pieced together the burned and broken bodies strewn along a wooded hillside last night when a four-engine airliner suddenly plunged from 1,000 feet and killed all 53 aboard.

It was the worst disaster in the history of U. S. commercial aviation

Forty-nine passengers, one of them a babe in its mother's arms, and four crew members were aboard the Eastern Airlines DC-4 on a non-stop flight from Newark, N. J., to Miami, Fla.

Three eyewitnesses said the giant plane exploded in the air Two said it turned on its back and dived to the ground.

Searchers today collected all but one of the mutilated bodies and removed them over improvised trails to the nearby Bainbridge Naval training center.

Comdr J S Schmidt, duty officer at Bainbridge, said attempts to identify the dead would begin at 10 a. m today under the supervision of Cecil County Coroner R G. Dodson and an Eastern Airlines physician.

Climaxes Disastrous 48 Hours

The crash in the Maryland hills climaxed 48 hours of air disaster around the world.

Only the night before a United Airlines mainliner was wrecked at New York with the loss of 41 lives For 24 hours that wreck had the macabre honor of being the worst commercial air catastrophe the United States had known.

The latest plane to crash came in low over the hills around this northern Maryland community about 7 30 p. m., winged over and plummeted into a forest a short distance from the Susquehanna river

"It went right smack into the woods" reported J G Higgins of Baltimore who was driving along a nearby highway "Then there was a terrific sheet of flame, followed by a thick cloud of black smoke. Then there was a wisp of white smoke"

No Trouble Apparent

Eyewitnesses at Bainbridge and Port Deposit reported seeing the DC-4 passing over a few minutes before the crash Although it was flying low, they said, and engines were roaring, the plane did not appear to be in trouble

The explosions which followed the crash shook buildings four miles away The fire burned for three hours and prevented rescuers from approaching the main section of the ship

Clothing and sections of the plane dangled from trees all around the tiny valley where the plane struck

Hastily assembled rescue and fire fighting crews reached the burning wreckage within half an hour but it was evident from the first that there could be no survivors.

Witnesses Differ

The stories of witnesses differed as to what actually happened just before the disaster, but most agreed that the transport suddenly winged over and headed for the earth

The scene of the wreck was in the area known as Whittaker's Barriens, a short distance from the Susquehanna river.

Police, soldiers and sailors first had to hack paths through the underbrush to reach the plane Then they began widening the paths into roads so that the bodies could be brought out after daylight

The catastrophe was witnessed from the air by two civil aeronautics board officials who today were among those investigating the cause—as yet unknown

The CAB said it probably was the first time that a major airline crash has been witnessed by men who regulate the safety of air operations.

None Can Be Identified

Dr Robert C. Dodson, Cecil county medical examiner who labored through the night with Navy corpsmen and civilian volunteers, said

"Not a single one of the victims can be identified. They are all burned or mutilated beyond recognition."

A Navy guard was posted for the night around the area as volunteers waited for daylight to complete their sorry task of locating bodies

Col. Beverly Ober, superintendent of Maryland police, after visiting the wreck said

'That was the worst scene I have ever witnessed as a police officer"

Ober added it was scarcely conceivable that none of the dead escaped mutilation

Locate 35 Bodies

At midnight the searchers had located 35 bodies, reverently placed them in a small opening in the woods and covered them with sheets

Two mobile Army spotlights illuminated the tiny valley where the DC-4 had cut a path of horror through a stand of sturdy eight-inch trees

Rescue workers said the bodies of three children were found in the wreckage

Early arrivals at the scene, many of them momentarily overcome by the sight of dismembered bodies, crumpled segments of

Bodies of 40 Killed in Crash Near Tokyo Brought To Base

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, May 31—The First Cavalry division announced tonight the bodies of all 40 persons killed in the fiery crash of a four-engined Army courier plane Thursday night had been brought to Hadano command post from the crash scene on a mountainside 30 miles southwest of Tokyo

Maj. G. F. McGinn of the Eighth army graves registration section was attempting to identify the bodies, which will be transferred to the Yokohama military cemetery for burial

Soldiers under Brig Gen. William Bradford worked for hours to bring the bodies out of the rugged country.

Searchers sent word back to First division headquarters that the bodies were burned beyond recognition. It was the worst aerial disaster of the occupation and one of the worst in the history of the Orient.

The plane was flying from an air field near Seoul, Korea, to a base near Tokyo on a routine courier mission.

Reports from the scene said the plane exploded after the crash and only the tail assembly remained after the ensuing fire.

The Far East Air Force announced an official investigation had begun. The plane carried eight officers, 28 enlisted men, and four civilians. The casualty list was held up until kin are notified.

Tax, Labor Bills Have Truman In Biggest Quandry of Career

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, May 31—Now President Truman must make up his mind about two of the most difficult problems of his presidency so far.

Should he try to kill the new tax-cut and labor bills with a veto or let one or both become law?

James Marlow

He's been opposed to both. But the Republicans in congress, with the help of some Democrats, have rammed them through.

The decisions he makes will affect the whole country: Everyone who pays taxes, labor unions, employers, and the general public.

So his decisions seem bound to have an effect on the 1948 presidential elections when Mr. Truman's Democrats line up against the Republicans.

Congress, after months of work, is just finishing up both bills. Mr. Truman probably will receive them within the next few days.

He must make up his mind within 10 days after they reach him. That's law. So there should be an answer somewhere around June 15.

This is what he can do with the bills:

1. Veto them. This will kill them unless congress can muster up a two-thirds vote to re-pass them into law over the veto. That's not easy.

2. Let them become law without his signature. They automatically become law if he fails to sign or veto them within 10 days after they reach him.

3. Sign them into law.

Both house and senate approved the labor bill by more than a two-thirds vote.

Tax-Cut Bill Shy

Not so with the tax-cut bill. That passed by a simple majority vote only the Republicans were unable to whip up a two-thirds vote for that in either house.

So if Mr. Truman vetoes the labor bill, congress once more may be able to produce a two-thirds vote on it and pass it into law over the veto.

But if he vetoes the tax-cut bill it probably will stay killed. Congress is not likely to get up a two-thirds vote to re-pass that into law over the veto.

Mr. Truman can give plenty of reasons for vetoing the tax bill. For example:

Congress won't know until late in June how much money is needed, in taxes, to run the government another year and pay off some of its debts.

Could Say Poor Business

Yet the tax bill would cut $4,000,000,000 off government income before it knows how much money it needs to run. Mr. Truman could say this is poor business.

But suppose he kills the tax cut bill with a veto. What will be the effect on millions of Americans who are expecting a cut?

Because of disappointment in this, a lot of voters may blame Mr. Truman and his Democrats and take it out on them in the 1948 elections.

Laur unions already are bitter against the Republicans for cooking up the labor bill which puts more restrictions on unions than any measure in history.

So even if Mr. Truman signs it into law he isn't apt to lose the support of unions which have supported the Democrats for years.

But he can win their gratitude by vetoing it, even though congress then passes it into law over the veto.

Suppose he vetoes it and congress can't pass it into law and big labor troubles break out between now and the 1948 elections.

Will the non-union people, particularly those who wanted curbs on union, blame him and take it out on the Democrats in 1948?

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Self-Medication

FEW things are more dangerous than trying to be your own doctor. Now, I know as well as you do that no sensible man is going to try to take out his own appendix, but I also know that thousands who consider themselves very sensible people indeed are every day doing other, scarcely less hazardous things in their attempts at self-medication without at all realizing the dangers involved.

Take for instance the matter of nose drops.

For some time we have had a number of these preparations which, when used in the nose, shrink the lining membrane and relieve congestion. Properly used, they are a great boon and most helpful in relieving symptoms due to colds and sinus infections.

But now, unfortunately, many people, having discovered these helpful preparations, are using them without the physician's advice, in the wrong way and at the wrong times.

Through too constant use, the original nose drops soon lose their power to give relief. Then our self - doctors purchase stronger preparations. Sooner or later the condition of the nose becomes so bad that the drops are required every two or three hours. Many of these persons feel that, if they stop using the drops, they will be unable to breathe and unable to sleep at night.

This self-treatment and over-treatment of the nose causes rhinitis or nasal inflammation with congestion of the tissues over the bones in the nose, known as the turbinates. The lining membrane of the nose is pale and water-logged and the discomfort becomes so acute that it drives the patient to the doctor he should have consulted in the first place.

In treating this condition the doctor, as a rule, completely stops the use of the nose drops. During the next three or four days the nose will be more stuffed up than usual but after this time the congestion will gradually disappear. Usually after a week, according to Dr. Clifford F. Lake of the Mayo Clinic, the patient is able to breathe quite freely providing there is no deformity within the nose which blocks the air passages. During this period it may be necessary for the patient to have some nerve-quieting drug at bedtime.

Dr. Lake does not favor the use of nose drops except in particular cases and then only when prescribed by the doctor. For example, they may be employed before operations on the nose. They may be used for infants who are nursing, to relieve the symptoms of a cold so that the baby may breathe well enough to take his feeding.

Rather than use the nose drops, Dr. Lake favors the employment of cotton moistened with a silver preparation which is placed in the nose by the physicians, and left in place for the proper period of time. This tends to stimulate the flow of mucus from the nose and helps increase the drainage in cases of sinus infection and in the final stages of a cold. During the early part of a cold, hot, wet cloths over the face often relieve the congestion and allow the patient to breathe better.

Remember that if nose drops are to be employed, the physician's advice should be followed concerning their use.

PEACE AS MEMORIAL TO WAR DEAD URGED

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., May 31. The only fitting memorial we can erect for those who made the supreme sacrifice in the last and previous wars is the structure of universal and permanent peace, said Pastor Howard F. Yeager, of St. Paul Lutheran church here speaking at the annual Memorial Day service at Old Mission cemetery.

Selecting his test from Isaiah, he read the words of the prophet delivered in the market place to the pople at a time when the people of the Old Testament history were in danger of losing their national identity and their individual rights.

Today, he added, because of the strength of our nation the world is looking to us, and we are obligated to assume a position of leadership; and as Isaiah cried to his people, we must "Seek the Lord" to enable us to assume that leadership.

Other speakers were Willis Harvey Jr. who read General Logan's General Order No. 11 establishing Memorial Day; Anna Jane Ellis, who delivered Lincoln's Gettysburg address, and Supt. of Schools Charles E. Davis, the officer of the day.

Mr. Davis, a former air corps major, said there are now only 97 GAR members living and but 80 of the Civil War's Boys in Grey. The veterans of later wars will find their ranks also thinning as time goes on, he added, but it will always be the responsibility of the living to preserve the observance of Memorial Day.

Veterans conducted the memorial service at the grave of the unknown soldier buried near Old Mission church and concluded the ceremony with a salute from the firing squad and the sounding of taps with a distant echo.

Seek Workers For Wyandot Co. Farms

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, May 31—Reports reaching the extension office headed by Wyandot County Agent S. C. Cashman, indicate farmers in this community are at least a month behind with spring work. Current weather and soil conditions indicate a probable additional week of delay.

With the hoped for weather break, "when and if" farmers will need all the help they can get. Residents of Upper Sandusky and other Wyandot county towns who can operate farm equipment or drive tractors are being sought for lists to help farmers keep the wheels rolling around the clock when the opportunity to plow and plant does arrive.

The late season has forced changes in cropping plans. Less than 25 per cent of a normal oats crop is planted and many producers will now concentrate on grains more apt to show a profit. Acreage intended for oats will in most cases be given over to corn, soy beans or sugar beets.

Some land will be devoted to hay and forage crops as a safeguard on livestock and dairy farms against the possible 25 to 50 per cent failure of grain crops. The chances are still good for a "fair" corn crop but records in this territary show average yields drop after May 24, and many experienced farmers consider June 15 as the final deadline for planting corn.

A large increase in soybean planting is expected and an unusually strong demand for early varieties is expected. Some buckwheat may also be sown for grain feed.

The average yield of corn on U.S. land is 33 bushels per acre but yields of 140 bushels to the acre are not uncommon and there is one report of a yield of 225 bushels an acre.

Ernie Pyle's New Book Contains Best Work

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 31—The man who has written some of the best books of our time never consciously wrote a book in his life.

But he proved something—that a man doesn't have to haul off in an ivory tower to create literature. He can do it under the day by day stress of turning out a daily piece for the newspapers, newspapers which tomorrow a housewife may use to line a pantry shelf.

Hal Boyle

I mean Ernie Pyle. As his fame as war reporter rose in the early days of the African war, Ernie was subjected to many profitable offers from publishers who wanted him to write a book. His answer was always the same: "It takes everything I've got to go on doing what I am."

What he was doing was simply writing the greatest study of soldier life in wartime in history. Eventually this became apparent, and his daily material was gathered into a series of books that will stand as the classic eye witness account of the second war.

These books made the little man with the half-pint body and giant heart a national hero, because he somehow symbolized the American fear and hatred of war and yet also the American character to go on and finish the task. The books also made him famous, embarrassed and rich—wealth he never cared for nor lived to spend.

But before Ernie became the spokesman of the American soldier at war he was the quiet chronicler of America at peace.

For five years before the war he traveled about the states, writing about the oddities and virtues of the country and people he loved, building an ever widening loyal audience.

This material has been collected into a new book—"Home Country,"—and it holds the heart of the real Ernie Pyle, a happy traveler looking forward each morning to a new adventure. It is Ernie before war and personal sorrow had taken the zest from him.

"I hope some day you people will publish the book of mine that I like best myself," he once told a publishing firm. "That's the book with all the stuff I wrote before the war, the book about my own country, about home."

It is his best writing—or as good as anything he ever did later. It is writing with the homely strength that endures.

LAST OF MANSFIELD ESCAPEES CAPTURED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 31 — Mansfield reformatory authorities today had accounted for all six youths who fled the institution last Monday.

The capture of James Westlake, 19, of Newark, O., at a bus station here yesterday completed the roundup. Three were nabbed Thursday in New Jersey and two were caught in Indiana Wednesday.

Detectives seized Westlake after a fight in which the fugitive was shoved through a plate glass window and suffered severe scalp lacerations.

Police said Westlake admitted two armed robberies here last Thursday in which $1,400 was taken from one victim and that he was carrying $892 when captured.

Westlake, who was serving a one to five year sentence for armed robbery, escaped with five others from the reformatory by kidnaping a guard, stealing a prison truck and tricking a gatekeeper into opening the reformatory gate.

Those previously captured and the offenses for which they had been convicted were: Edward Fischer, 20, of Jersey City, auto theft; John Conte, 22, of Dayton, robbery; Paul Vukovich, 18, of Dayton, grand larceny; Galen Brisco, 20, of Hamilton, O., burglary and larceny; and William Lucas, 17, of Cincinnati, juvenile delinquency.

Couple Exchange Vows at Pilgrim Holiness Church

THE First Pilgrim Holiness church was the scene of the wedding Sunday, May 25, of Miss Ruth Emma Osborne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred O. Osborne of 1007 Bennett street, to Clifford Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas of 138 Waterloo street. The ceremony was read at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon before the altar banked with palms and bouquets of white gladioli and pink snapdragons. Rev. Joel Harman, pastor, officiated.

A half-hour program of nuptial music preceded the ceremony with Mrs. Rhea Dotson as pianist and Howard Orr, soloist. Mrs. Dotson's selections included "Indian Love Call," "Stardust," "When I Grow Too Old to Dream," "When Your Hair Has Turned to Silver," "Twilight Time," "Always," and the traditional wedding marches. During the ceremony she played "Living for Jesus." Mr. Orr sang "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," "Because," "Thine Alone,' and "I Love You Truly.'

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline. The bodice, button trimmed down the back, had inserts of lace, and the skirt extended into a long circular train. The lace capped leg o'mutton sleeves ended in points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a tiara of orange blossoms, and she carried a handkerchief that was carried by Mrs. Florence Brandum at her wedding. The bride carried an arm bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Belvia Holloway, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Misses Kathryn and Bonita Osborne cousins of the bride. Mrs. Holloway wore a gown of pink taffeta with a over skirt of white net. Her shoulder length veil was held in place with a halo of matching net, and she carried an arm bouquet of blue carnations tied with matching ribbon. The bridesmaids wore blue taffeta gowns with over skirts of white net and carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations. Their shoulder length veils were held in place with halos of matching net.

Miss Thena Utley, as flower girl, was attired in yellow taffeta and wore a halo of sweet peas in her hair. Little Miss Sandra Huntsman, in a white taffeta gown and wearing a corsage of sweet peas, carried the bride's train.

Willis Holloway, brother-in-law of the bride, served as best man, and ushers were William and Warren Osborne, cousins of the bride. Ronald Osborne, cousin of the bride, and Donald Thomas, brother of the bridegroom, were also attendants.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Osborne chose a navy blue dress with black accessories. Mrs. Thomas was attired in a black crepe dress with black accessories. Each wore a corsage of white gardenias and shattered carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception for approximately 100 relatives and friends was held at the home of the bride's parents. The table was centered with a two tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Serving were Mrs. E. L. Cole, Mrs. Cora Gray, Mrs. Thurman Self, Mrs. E. Osborne, Mrs. Forrest Dotson, Mrs. Arthur Browning, Mrs. James Postell, Mrs. C. P. Pridgen and Mrs. Ray Brandum. When the couple left on a short wedding trip to Cincinnati, Mrs. Thomas was wearing a rose dress with navy blue accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. Her jewelry was a chatelaine, a gift from the bridegroom. Upon their return, the couple will live with the bride's parents until their new home on Clinton street is completed.

Mrs. Thomas is a graduate of Harding High school with the class of 1945. She was previously employed with the Army at the Pentagon building in Washington, D. C., and is now employed at the Ward-Stilson Co. Mr. Thomas, a graduate of Prospect High school in 1941, served three years in the U. S. Army, and was with the 503rd parachute infantry in the Philippines for one year. He is now employed as a timekeeper at the Marion Power Shovel Co. plant.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Lucy Jones and son, Cecil, of Lima, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Shaw and daughter, Anna, Mr. and Mrs. James Osborne and children from Cardington, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph James of Cleveland, and others from Prospect, Wyandot, LaRue, Richwood and Ashley.

HOMES GO UP ON SITE OF PW CAMP

By The Associated Press

INDIANOLA Neb.—Where defeated Nazis once sulked out the war a peace-loving American community is rising here.

The site, a former German prisoner of war camp, is being converted to house Bureau of Reclamation workers and their families.

From surroundng hills a former prisoner would see little difference. The barracks still stand in orderly rows. The main gate still stands. But some buildings have been torn down to make it possible to convert the others to new uses.

One compound building was converted into a hospital. The prison camp jail now makes up 41 apartments for families of men whose business it is to bring water to a semi-arid region.

Only Bureau workers and their families live in the apartments at the camp. There are now 150 of them, 45 of whom are children.

The women do their washings in a former barracks kept warm by two gas-fired heaters. The former prison theater is now the recreation hall where ladies' clubs meet and men have a volleyball league.

Married Vets Living In Trailers Getting Best College Grades

By The Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Married veterans who live in trailers are taking the high grade honors at Indiana university.

Students living in Woodlawn, a trailer camp on the campus, are leading all groups with an average of B, which is good.

Almost 20 per cent of these veterans, however, were slightly below A, which is excellent, and eight of the 300 finished the first semester with a straight A average.

Fatherhood also must be an urge to do well in the classrooms because of these eight, five have children living in the trailers with them.

"Being away from this country for a long time makes men appreciate advantages of the United States," is the opinion of John Holly of Indianapolis, who made straight A's in his economics courses. "Also being out of things for quite a while makes us want to make up for lost time."

Max M. Marsh, also of Indianapolis, a senior studying chemistry, said: "The veteran studies harder than before because he now has a clearer picture of what he wants to accomplish."

"Veterans are able to schedule their time to better advantage and don't fall into the habit of wasting time," is the opinion of Donald R. Cressey of Fergus Falls, Minn., graduate student of sociology.

All of the veterans agree that being married helps.

The married veteran has more time to study because he doesn't spend so much time in extracurricular activities, observed C. Sharp Cook, graduate student in physics from Columbus, Ind.

In Memory

★Of my dear husband, Homer E. Barnthouse, who passed away May 31, 1946.

I am sad within my memory,
  Lonely is my heart today,
For the one I loved so dearly
  Has forever been called away.
I think of him in silence,
  No eye may see me weep,
But many silent tears are shed
  When others are asleep.
Some may think that I have forgotten,
  Some may think the wound is healed,
But little do they know the sorrow
  That is in my heart concealed.
Oh! what would I give to touch his hand,
  His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile
  It would mean so much to me.
Just when his days seemed brightest,
Just when his hopes seemed best,
God called him from amongst us
  To his eternal rest.
Sadly missed, but God knows best.

His Wife.

RELIEF FROM LEPROSY SEEN

Perhaps Total Cure Coming from Sulpha Drugs, Authorities Say.

By HELENE MONBERG
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The leprosy advisory committee to the U. S. Public Health Service believes substantial relief and, perhaps, total cure is in store for the world's 3,000,000 lepers through the use of new sulfa drugs.

The committee has drawn up a "plan of attack" on the leprosy problem in this country, keyed especially to early diagnosis and modern treatment.

It hopes to eradicate leprosy in the United States in the next few years. There are now from 1,000 to 3,000 American victims.

With modern methods of diagnosis and treatment applied in leprosaria abroad, the committee believes the disease could rapidly be curbed throughout the world.

Since 1914, promin, diasone, and promizole drugs, all derivatives of the sulfa family, have been used extensively at the nation's sole leprosarium at Carville, La.

As a result of their use, 37 patients were discharged between June, 1945, and June, 1946—a discharge rate three times higher than normal.

Immediate Steps Urged

Along with the use of these new drugs, the committee recommends some immediate steps. They include intensive case-finding, establishment of special treatment clinics in states where the disease flourishes, out-patient treatment of cases no longer infectious, periodic examinations of discharged patients, and continued research into cause and cure.

At Carville, the new drug streptomycin is being used experimentally, with the hope that it, too, will become a weapon against leprosy. Other research includes tests on the way that the disease is transmitted from one person to another.

The committee says one of the biggest factors in treating leprosy is to provide pleasant surroundings for the patients. Lepers respond to treatment faster if they live a regulated life and have a nutritious diet, sanitary environment, rest periods and frequent medical attention.

Above all, the experts favor early diagnosis. With the use of the sulfa drugs, leprosy patients can be cured in from 18 months to four years if the disease is promptly spotted.

The average patient at Carville has had leprosy for five years before he enters the leprosarium. Even so, 38 per cent of the 137 patients who have received promin treatment for more than two years have shown definite improvement, reacting negatively to leprosy tests.

Promin Much Faster

Promin is a much faster and more effective method of treatment than chaulmoogra oil, previously used almost universally. Much doubt is now expressed among leprosy experts as to whether chaulmoogra oil has any effect whatever on patients who have had the disease for ten years or more.

It is only slightly effective if the victim has had the disease more than five years. It generally arrests, but seldom cures, if used within five years after the patient contracts leprosy.

Leprosy has been known since ancient times, and is frequently mentioned in the Bible. Although victims of the disease were placed in leprosaria to check its spread, it has traveled around the world.

It is common in Africa, China, India, Japan, the Philippines, the East Indies, Malaya, Hawaiian Islands, Mexico, Central and South America, and in the southern part of the United States.

Leprosy was introduced into California by the Asiatics and into Texas by Mexicans. It has since occurred in nearly every state in this country, but spreads, only in the semi-tropical states of Florida, California, Louisiana and Texas.

Because of the unsightly appearance of lepers, the disease is one of the most dreaded by mankind. Lepers have been traditionally ostracized from normal intercourse with the public, and have often been forced to flee because of inhumane treatment.

This public attitude contributed to the spread of the disease because afflicted persons have hesitated to ask for medical treatment.

The New York Botanical Gardens has prepared a list of soil conservation, ornamental and food plants for the U. S. Navy to use in rehabilitating devastated Pacific islands.

We Believe It or We Don't

OVER-EAGER praise of Herbert Hoover's separate-peace proposal is coming from those who are over-itchy to show disapproval of Russia.

Before these indignant citizens cut off America's nose to spite Joe Stalin's face, there are a few things to consider.

One is the United Nations. Americans either believe in the principle of collective security, or they don't. One more unilateral gesture at this time would be the last straw.

Another is the folly of pretending that a peace agreement with a fraction of an occupied country (Germany) or without the collaboration of all belligerents (Japan) would hold water, even in the present state of international law.

Still another is the damage to the word of the United States, which pledged itself to make no separate peace agreements. What little honor still exists in international relations should be preserved.

The biggest thing to consider, however, is the morale of the American people. This republic was founded on Christian principles and is theoretically responsive to them. Either we believe in these principles or we don't—and if we do this government will continue to turn the other diplomatic cheek to the Soviet Union until the latter breaks off all further diplomatic relations.

No matter how exasperating the Russians may be in diplomacy, the United States will give them the benefit of every doubt. It will give them every conceivable change to act in good faith for advancement of cooperative security. It will guard itself zealously against making any move that could be construed as an overt gesture of hostility against Russia.

Patience and forebearance may make no impression on the Kremlin. But they can do no harm, and they will make a tremendous impression on the people of the United States. If war must be the outcome of Russian irreconcilability, the blame must be where it belongs—on the irreconcilables.

They Died Calmly

THIS WEEK'S mass executions in Germany mean justice finally has caught up with some of the smaller fry in the Nazi hierarchy—brutal prison guards and SS henchmen with records for cruelty rarely if ever equaled in history.

The fact these men died calmly, as did the principals of the Nuremburg trials, is not so much a tribute to their courage as it is evidence that death is commonplace to them. For years they have been on familiar terms with death and they have seen it come to many men. For months they have known they, too, would cross that dark threshold. They have met death calmly, but not bravely. Bravery isn't a word to be associated with such degraded types.

Give Some Names

THE congressional subcommittee on un-Americanism reports "some of the most flagrant Communism propaganda films were produced as a result of White House pressure." What are some of these flagrantly Communist films? Give some names.

So far the only film mentioned has been "Song of Russia." If that is the most subversive item the subcommittee has been able to uncover, it might as well close its brief-cases and go back to Washington. Let's not kid ourselves, "Song of Russia," "Days of Glory," "The City That Stopped Hitler" and "Moscow Strikes Back," along with possibly a dozen other films, were part of a national wave of sympathy felt for Russia from 1941 to 1945. The United States was cheering hard for Russia in those days and we shipped her billions' worth of supplies.

Such film stories may have been written by authors whose first allegiance was to the Communist International and they may have been produced as a result of White House pressure. But they are not enough to pin the Communist tag on anybody.

Going to Grass

FEAR of catastrophe is taking root in the thoughts of weather critics. Too much rain too long continued is more than an inconvenience.

Ohio's crop loss to date is estimated at 25 per cent by competent observers. The loss could become 50 per cent if excessive rain continues another fortnight, at the climax of the planting season. These percentages do not refer to money, but to yields—food needed to sustain a hungry world. There will be grass in abundance this year, but going to grass cannot stave off international famine.

The war is over. The hunger has just begun. The most unfavorable planting season in memory, in the heart of the world's grocery basket, is an ill omen. Instead of complainnig about the weather, praying about it might be wiser.

Marvelous Uncle Mart

By FRANK TRIPP

YOU didn't know my Uncle Mart; you couldn't very well. He died when I was a shank of a boy, but I always remember him around Memorial day. He had some odd ways, among them the way to escape work.

He wasn't really my uncle. He was my mother's uncle, though he ran far afield of the rest of our tribe. Just the same mother sheltered him much—my father said to "blow at."

Uncle Mart was named for Martin Van Buren. He was very proud of his name, being a free trader himself. I remember one time when he was on one of stated stays at our house, he came home pretty well beat up because of his name.

When the old boy got his pension he found queer places to go and he didn't always come back as good as he went nor with much of his pension. Once in a while he'd bring home a cosy little brannigan. We knew then that Uncle Mart was about to change abode. My mother was an ardent white-ribboner.

This time Uncle Mart got away with it. His alibi posed an historical fact which it took me years to understand. To him the Civil War was an continuous, unending thing and he stayd right in the midst of it. Pension time was a grand campfire with old cronies. He got bunged up for expounding his knowledge of the eighth president of the United States, whose name he bore.

To a stalwart, tipsy patriot Uncle Mart proclaimed that Martin Van Buren was the first real American to be president. Whereupon the comrade, recalling George Washington, let Uncle Mart have it on the beezer. My kin suffered this dastardly assault in spite of the technical accuracy of his statement.

Van Buren, though the eighth president, was the first to be born an American citizen after the Declaration of Independence. The first seven were born British subjects. A fact which Uncle Mart was not given time to clarify.

I doubt if Uncle Mart ever did a solid year's work after being mustered out of the cavalry. He visited from relative to relative with the punctuality of the moon. He was immaculate and smart, tall and genteel in his way. He was witty and full of tall stories. Sort of a Senator Claghorn in reverse. To him nothing good came out of the South, with the possible exception of white mule.

He knew when to move on; could sense his welcome waning and pulled stakes before his in-laws got too fed up on him. Thus he was always welcomed back, with all his faults. He brought now crops of stories and weird experiences; everybody wanted to hear "Uncle Mart's lies." He was looked upon as a much-traveled man, though he moved in a circle not more than 50 miles wide. But he got to know everybody and see everything therein.

The children clung to Uncle Mart. At pension time he was good for a small touch. He always planned to buy me a bicycle but never made it. Each time, after he blew in his pension with the comrades, he'd come home repentant and say next pension I'd get a bicycle.

I waited in vain. Then one time, just after the old fellow was broke again, he put his arm around me and drew me to his knee. In quivering voice he said: "Honest, boy, I intended to get you a bicycle this time. I planned it ever since last pension." He choked and blubbered, "I can't help it boy, honest I can't."

Though thrice disappointed, I understood. I've always understood Uncle Mart and everybody like him. Of course they can't help it.

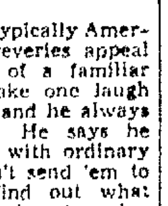
Thousands of Uncle Marts came out of the Civil war. They moved out on their own into a wretched unbolstered economy. They saved the Union, to be tossed into a carnival of bad habits and self-indulgence. They went back to impoverished farms and shattered home. Shabby pensions came long after. No war bonus, terminal pay or colleges for them.

They're all gone now, those Boys of '61 scarcely a one left of the legion that paraded proudly when I was a boy. Those of '98 are old men too. Those of World War I are stiffing at the joints. Now it's a legion from World War II—while peace we seek.

What next to spew forth Uncle Marts—to pity, still to love?

Introducing Frank Tripp

▶Here is a brief introduction of Frank Tripp, who will be a contributor to the editorial page of The Star every Saturday, starting with today's human interest sketch of his "Uncle Mart."



Frank Tripp

Mr. Tripp is one of the country's outstanding newspapermen, a resident of New York State. During the war he was chairman of the Allied Newspaper Council, which was the wartime promotion laisson between daily and weekly newspapers and the U. S. treasury, also several other activities.

He writes about typically American things. His reveries appeal as does a picture of a familiar scene. He can make one laugh or make one weep and he always makes one think. He says he only aims to "visit with ordinary people" and "doesn't send 'em to encyclopedias to find out what I mean—just wants 'em to enjoy themselves.

Which Comes First

....Sex or Safety?

The modehn glamour gal is definitely a fire and accident hazard, according to the director of the National Safety Council.

As if even the most naive have been laboring under the illusion that dangerous curves are confined to the nation's highways.

It's true, of course—though certainly it shouldn't be—that only the latter variety are marked: Caution, Proceed at Your Own Risk!

Jewelry, screwball hats and frilly clothes are listed as principal contributing causes to accidents around glamour girls, although occasionally one of the extremists of the species does get her eyelashes caught in a revolving door.

High heels, too, cause a lot of mishaps. In fact, it is a toss-up whether they are abhorred more by safety enginers or short suitors.

There being such a fine line between attractions and distractions, one can understand the glamour girl being an accident hazard. But that fire business comes as a surprise, she having traditionally occasioned more yearning than burning.

Still, she can find some consolation in the fact that she is built to the average male's specifications...if not to the underwriter's.

Neglecting the UN

By RAYMOND MOLEY

HERBERT HOOVER has said that if the next conference of foreign ministers does nothing constructive, we should contemplate a separate peace with Germany and Japan. Considering the stubbornness of the Russians, this expression of expiring patience is not surprising. But the general public has more patience. According to the Gallup poll, twice as many people want to continue trying to get Russia to work with us as those who favor proceeding with arrangements which exclude Russia. And it is noteworthy that among veterans the proportion who favor continued patience is higher than the general average.

It is clear that the tendency is growing among American leaders to suggest world planning which by-passes the UN. The Truman Doctrine itself is unilateral. The belated suggestion that the UN be brought in was made by Senator Vandenberg.

Now Secretary of Agriculture Anderson has proposed an international conference to regulate the distribution of cereal food supplies. Again, a mild gesture is made toward the UN in the suggestion that the UN food and agricultural organization be brought into that conference. But it is clear that in the distribution of wheat we shall take the major responsibility for world planning.

Disturbing Sign

Perhaps the food situation is so acute as to justify our initiative. Perhaps, also, the need of reestablishing Germany is so pressing as to justify the Hoover proposal. But it is disturbing, in the face of long-term facts, to see a weakening of confidence in the frail but essential UN.

World planning, with the United States as key planner, is possible only as long as we have wheat and money to enforce our will. But the use of money and food alone will not bring about solidarity in the non-Soviet world. Other nations ask our help because they can get help nowhere else. But that does not mean a continuing will on their part to join with us in holding the line against Russia.

It is not at all likely that Britain, under the present government, would support us in the face of a war danger. Nor would France. The two years since V-E Day have greatly changed the British outlook. With Churchill in power and with the flush of victory over the empire, some Americans were afraid we would be dragged into conflict to maintain British ascendency in the Near East and in Asia. But that fear is now reversed, with the British afraid lest they be tied to our world purposes.

Changed Situation

We have witnessed, in two years, a change in British outlook as great as anything that has happened since the American Revolution. The British Empire has been transformed. Withdrawal from Asia has been abrupt and sweeping. The empire has literally retreated to the continent of Africa. The Labor government has carried out a large measure of socialization and, despite its troubles, there is so sign that it has lost public support.

France hovers on the brink of Communism. The small nations of Europe are figuring how they can avoid being drawn into a new world conflict. One of those countries which came here seeking wheat confessed that her small supply was being held as a "war reserve."

There is no longer any prospect of a "grand alliance" of the West against the Soviet. Europe is tired of war and rumors of war.

Might it not be better, at such a moment, to mobilize this distaste for conflict into a renewed effort to build up the UN? Single-handed action by the United States can only promote isolationism elsewhere. World security is a difficult goal, but it can only be reached by collective action.

Hoover's Separate Peace

By WALTER LIPPMANN

MR. HOOVER told congress this week that the way to reduce the burden of occupation and to restore productivity in the world is for the United States to make a separate peace with Japan "at once," and a separate peace with our part of Germany if "Russia and France do not at once respond" to "a last call * * * to comply with the Potsdam agreement."

Mr. Hoover seems, however, to have forgotten that a separate peace with us would still leave Japan and Germany at war not only with the Soviet Union, but with many other nations, including in the case of Germany all, or at least almost all, her immediate neighbors.

Yet Mr. Hoover says also that we should "absolutely disarm" the Germans and the Japanese, who, though we have made a separate peace, will still be at war with their neighbors.

Thus the Hoover proposal would leave us with the job of keeping all the Japanese and all of our Germans disarmed, and yet of defending them against their neighbors with whom they will not only still be at war, but against whom, by signing a separate peace, we, our Germans and our Japanese will have committed an unfriendly act.

It will leave us also with the job of maintaining in power the puppet governments with which we have made a separate peace. For if the Hoover plan were put into effect, Germany would have been dismembered. The German "government," which made a separate peace with us would be the government of our part of Germany only.

Thus Mr. Hoover, who wants to "unify" Germany in order to make it self-supporting, would have divided Germany into an American puppet state and a Russian puppet state. This would be like trying to catch smallpox in order to do something drastic about chickenpox.

For what Mr. Hoover is suggesting is that we should disunite irreparably Germany and Europe and the world because we have not as yet been able to reunite Germany.

Idea Is Familiar

Mr. Hoover was a member of President Harding's cabinet, and its leading expert on international affairs, when we made separate peace with Germany after the first world war.

Mr. Hoover is, therefore, familiar with the idea of breaking up a wartime alliance, of withdrawing from international organization and of making a separate peace with Germany.

He may think that the first experiment with Germany, in which he played a leading, indeed the decisive part, was a good precedent. But he must, if he stops to think about it, realize that 1947 isc not 1920. The first time he made a separate peace Germany had a recognized government and was already at peace with all her enemies. It was, therefore, possible, fully unwise, for the United States to make a separate peace.

But today there is no recognized German government, and none can be created except by consent of all the occupying powers. No part of Germany has made peace with any of its enemies.

To propose a separate peace with a non-existent German government in any part of Germany, is therefore, not merely to repeat the disastrous error of 1920 but to compound it indefinitely.

It would be an act not of withdrawal into isolation, as in 1920, but instead a most highly provocative act of defiance and disruption. For it would not merely break up the wartime alliance which underlies the United Nations but would create a new alliance.

Expensive Luxury

This new alliance would be an expensive luxury for us. For the Hoover alliance would consist of the United States, the disarmed puppet government of Japan, the disarmed puppet government of a part of Germany and such other states as were too weak not to be dragooned by us into following along.

Mr. Hoover seems to think he could dragoon Britain and France into this new combination. I wonder if he looked into that before he announced his plan or whether he just took it for granted that London and Paris would follow him in this adventure.

If he had looked into it, I think he would have had to conclude that Britain and France could be dragooned, if at all, only after an internal struggle which would certainly weaken them greatly if it did not tear them apart. At the end of the struggle, they might follow Mr. Hoover's lead. But then they would be able to add not strength but only weakness to this new alliance.

Yet perhaps a certain good may come to Mr. Hoover's having raised the question of a separate peace. For it should strengthen the conviction in the State department and elsewhere that the formation of a constructive policy of European union cannot be delayed much longer, if ideas which would be fatal to peace and subversive of the whole effort of the United Nations are not to gain ground among Americans, who ought by this time to know better.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, May 31, 1937.

The weekend holiday brought violent deaths to more than 380 persons in the nation, including at least 26 Ohioans. Of Ohio's fatalities, 13 were caused by traffic mishaps, 10 more drowned and two were suffocated in a fire.

The day was the hottest to date, according to Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, government weather observer. The mercury soared to 92.

Checks totaling more than $30,000 were being held for Wilbur Shaw, winner of the 500-mile Indianapolis motor speedway race after seven attempts.

A surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Peterman of East Farming street was in honor of the birthday anniversary of the hostess.

Miss Mildred Goerlich who was engaged in social work in Chicago, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Goerlich of Kenmore avenue.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, May 31, 1927.

For the second time since his arrival in Europe royal honors were conferred on Captain Charles A. Lindbergh in recognition of his epic transAtlantic flight when King George conferred upon him the air force cross. The ceremony took place at Buckingham Palace where Captain Lindbergh was the guest of the king.

Three aspirants for city council, two for a second term and one for a first term, filed declarations of candidacy with the Marion county board of elections. Grant Haldeman of Girard avenue was the new aspirant and John L. Owens and J. A. Wilkins, both members of council filed for second terms. All were Republicans.

Dr. G. T. Harding II was seriously ill in his home at Worthington.

The advertising car of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus occupied a siding on the Pennsylvania railroad near West Center street. The circus was to show in Marion within the next two weeks.

Miss Ollie Riley entertained with a dinner and shower at her home on Carhart street, complimenting Mrs. Jane Ross, a recent bride.

Mrs. Mary Edwards and Miss Ruth Edwards of Hane avenue, Mrs. Emma Colvin and Miss Grace Colvin of Linden place, Miss Anna Parks of East Center street and Miss Christine Rieck of East Center street returned from Rye Beach, where they spent the weekend at Miss Rieck's cottage.

The Clouds

A Sermonette

By REV. EMIL C. KLUTEY
Pastor of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church

". . . Nor the clouds return after the rain." Ecclesiastes 12:2.

WE MISS much because we do not look up often enough. "Lift up your eyes," says the Bible. By this the Bible means that we should look up to God; but when we look up we will also see God's clouds.

How are clouds formed? When I was a small boy I watched the trains. The hard-working engine would send billows of smoke into the air. Like many another boy I thought that was the way clouds were made.

I know better now. It is the sun that makes them. The sun draws the water from the oceans, lakes and rivers. This vapor as it passes up cannot be seen, but high in the sky it collects and then can be seen as clouds.

When you look into the sky you can see white, fleecy clouds. They are so fleecy and woolly looking that they remind us of a flock of sheep grazing in the pasture.

Besides their beauty, have they any value?

Indeed they have. Did you ever see people on a hot day, sitting under a large umbrella at the beach? They are not afraid of getting wet from a rain-storm, but are afraid of getting too much sun. Those white clouds are God's umbrella which he holds over the earth to protect it from too much sun. If it were not for this soft, velvety, cooling umbrella, the sun would burn and scorch the crops in our fields and gardens. The next time you see the fleecy clouds, thank God for being so thoughtful and kind to us.

On a hot day when the dry earth needs something more than the shade of clouds, see how quickly God can send a breeze to blow away the fleecy clouds and replace them with black clouds that carry rain. God uses the wind to push them here and there wherever rain is to fall.

Thank God for clouds! Nothing could grow or live without them.

Yet there are times when we complain because the sun is not shining. You know what a desert is. It is nothing but miles and miles of sand. Wherever you look, you see nothing green or growing. What makes a desert? The answer is easy. Too much sunshine makes a desert. The next time the clouds are over us like an umbrella or sending us rain we will not complain. Too much sunshine would make the whole earth a desert.

There are other things we call clouds. We speak of a cloud of smoke or a cloud of dust. We also speak of clouds in our lives.

How can a person have clouds in his life? Did you ever feel brokenhearted because some loved one in your family died? These unpleasant things that happen to us are sometimes called clouds. We would like to have no clouds in our lives; but all sunshine would make us like a desert. People who have become great and have done wonderful things for the world are those who had clouds in their lives.

As God sends clouds into the sky for the good of all, so he sends clouds into our lives for our good and the good of others. For his religious beliefs, John Bunyan was put into jail for 12 years. What darker cloud could have come into that man's life? But that cloud had a silver lining. It was during those years in jail that he wrote Pilgrim's Progress, a book that is still a best seller th ?fs½$er hanowly twhn as.

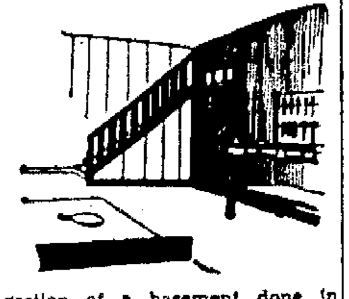
Modern Heating Aids Use of Basement Space for Recreation Rooms

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

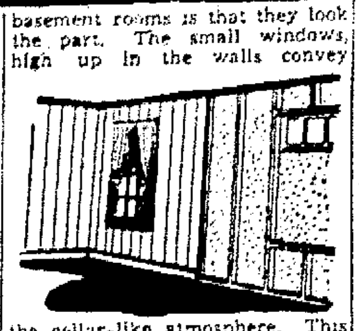
With the increased use of oil and gas as a fuel or of automatic self-stoking coal furnaces, the average house with a basement finds a considerable amount of space converted into bright and attractive rooms where noisy activities can be carried on without disturbing the sleeping areas of the house, and where games or hobbies that require a lot of floor area can be accommodated.

Until a few years ago, basement remodeling was quite a costly job, but with the introduction of composition wall-boards, and the perfecting of plywood sheet, the average remodeling project has simmered down to the point where it becomes possible for the average homeowner, who is handy with tools, to do it himself. The illustration here is a typical suggestion of a basement done in plywood and vertical white composition board. The contrast is interesting, and the white room end furnishes considerable reflective light.



The actual preparation of the walls which are usually of concrete block or poured concrete, is very simple. Two-by-two wood strips are run around the base of the walls and verticle studs of the same material are run up at two-foot intervals to support a corresponding strip at the ceiling. This furnished a good backing or frame on which the wall covering material can be nailed. The job should be done in what is known as a "driving-fit," in other words the vertical pieces should be sufficiently long to wedge tightly between the upper and lower rails. Do not make the mistake of measuring the distance between floor and ceiling and cutting all the vertical lengths at once, because basement floors are notorious for not being exactly level, and you might find as much as a full inch of variation in some places.

One of the chief objections to basement rooms is that they look the part. The small windows, high up in the walls convey the cellar-like atmosphere. This can be nicely eliminated by using false windows of standard size as shown by the drawing. These are placed below the real basement windows so as not to interfere with the necessary venetilation. In some particularly well-planned jobs, a small light has been arranged for between the wall and the false window which further heightens the effect.



There is always bound to be a certain amount of dampness and condensation on masonry walls below ground, and therefore it is not advisable to apply any kind of wall-board directly to the surface. The open air-space which the frame provides makes a far better arrangement.

The manufacturers of wall-boards and plywoods publish many splendid suggestions for basement play or hobby rooms, and they can be had for the asking.

Noggle Is Released On Bond in Bucyrus

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, May 31 — A. R. Noggle, who late Thursday pleaded guilty to arson when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Frederick Baerkircher, today was free on $2,500 bond.

Noggle's farm house was destroyed by fire May 15 a few hours before he was to have had it moved to a new location.

Arrested earlier this week, Noggle was taken to Toledo for a lie detector test and returned here for arraignment after he confessed.

Sheriff Ralph Schreck said Noggle would have collected $1,800 insurance.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Floor Finish

Q.: My floors are painted with shellac. I would like to put down a good varnish. How should I proceed? I cannot get a floor contractor.

A.: The shellac should be removed down to the wood by having the floors scraped with a floor-sanding machine. After wiping off the dust finish the floors with two thin coats of a good grade of floor varnish. Another method of taking off the shellac is to wipe with liberal quantities of denatured alcohol and coarse steel wool. (Do not shake the varnish cans.)

Window Hard to Clean

Q.: An attic room was locked for seven years, and during that time the window was not cleaned. No amount of cleaning removes the foggy spots and blotches. Can you suggest anything?

A.: The cleaner that I prefer for ordinary window cleaning is the type that is used at gas stations for windshields. You can get a similar product at some of the chain and dime stores. It comes in handy size bottles and is easy to use. Another method is to make a fairly thick paste of scratchless scouring powder and kerosene and spread it over the glass. After a half-hour or so, rub the same mixture. Finish cleaning with one of the soapless cleaning powders.

Odor of Fuel Oil

Q.: My oil tank started to leak, and oil spread over the cellar floor. This oil was cleaned up, but the odor remains. How can I get rid of it?

A.: Scrub the floor with a strong solution of washing soda or trisodium phosphate, about a cupful to each pail of hot water. Rinse well afterward and air the cellar well. If the odor persists, use a deodorizing preparation or else chloride of lime, sprinkled over the floor.

Wallpaper Cracks

Q: We did some paperhanging ourselves last spring and before that. We used the paste bought where we bought the paper, mixing it as directed. The paper in two rooms started cracking in about a week and is cracked all over the ceiling and walls. Would putting the paste on too thick or too thin cause the paper to crack?

A: (A good paperhanger could do the job so that the paper would stay on). Check the following possibilities. The improper glue sizing of the wall, too much paste, or perhaps the remains of whitewash or calcimine on the wall, or the wall plaster being too fresh. Also, check up on whether you remembered to apply glue sizing on the plaster before you hung the paper. This must be done every time wallpaper is hung, and the old glue size and paste need to be washed off before the new is applied. Also, did you do the work during cold weather, while the heated was running? If so, it may be that the heat dried the paste too quickly.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

Designed in contemporary style, this house eliminates need for a basement by providing a heater room concealed in the front of the house. Wide expanses of glass are on the garden side. Architect Randolph Evans, 140 Nassau street, New York 7, N. Y., designed it. White siding and dark asphalt shingles contrast pleasantly.

Upper Opens Drive On Gambling

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, May 31—"Gambling devices will not be permitted within the limits of Upper Sandusky," said Mayor John W. Milligan Friday, reaffirming a previous stand of the administration here and emphasizing there is "no change" in policy even though the state has adopted a "Hands off" position.

Some time ago, according to Mayor Milligan, the local administration, in co-operation with the state officials then in office, adopted a policy of strict enforcement of the gambling laws which prohibit gambling devices or machines, including slot machines, punch boards or ticket bowls from which activities money is paid as a prize.

"Since the present state administration has adopted a policy of leaving law enforcement entirely to local offocials," the Mayor added, "it has been called to our attention that some of those gambling devices have re-appeared here.

"Police have been instructed to canvass the town as a warning to violators. Unless such devices are immediately removed from the premises," Mayor Milligan concluded, "legal action will be taken to prosecute for the violation and for seizure of the property."

Summer Jam Session

STRAWBERRY JAM . . . A "must" for the pantry shelf . . .

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Even though you haven't all the sugar you want yet, you can surely spare some to make jam this summer. Jam has so many uses during the winter months. It can fill in desserts where sugar would be needed. It makes beautiful Christmas presents for friends. And summer is the time you must make it.

Here are a few good jam recipes to spur you on your way!

Spiced Rhubarb Jam with Orange

3 1/3 cups prepared fruit, 5 cups sugar, 1 box powdered fruit pectin.

To prepare fruit, trim and slice fine (do not peel) about 2 pounds of small red-stalked rhubuarb. Add 1 cup sugar, mix and let stand for 15 minutes. Add 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves and grated rind of one orange.

Measure 4 cups sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5 to 6 quart saucepan, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary.

Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ½ teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard one minute.

Remove from fire, skim, and pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 7 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Strawberry Marmalade

3 cups prepared fruit, 4 cups sugar, 1 box powdered fruit pectin.

To prepare fruit, remove skins in quarters from 1 medium orange and 1 medium lemon. Lay quarters flat; shave off and discard about half of white part. With a very sharp knife, cut remaining rind into fine shreds. Add ¾ cup water and 1/16 teaspoon soda. Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, for just 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cut off tight skin of peeled fruit and slip pulp out of each section. Add pulp and juice to cooked rind and simmer, covered, 15 minutes longer. Crush completely or grind about 1 quart fully ripe strawberries. Combine fruits.

Measure sugar in dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 3 to 4 quart saucepan, filling up last cup with water if necessary. Place over hottest fire. Add powered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring again to a boil and boil gently two minutes. Remove from fire, skim, and pour quickly. Paraffin hot marmalade at once. Makes about 7 glasses of 6 fluid ounces each.

Would you care—or dare—to do strawberries in the sun the way our grandmothers used to? If you would—here's how:

Sun Preserved Strawberries

Wash and stem sound large berries. Measure for every cup or bowl of berries, 1 cup or bowl of sugar. Let this stand for half a day or until the sugar soaks through and the juice comes out. Then put into a pot on the stove and let boil three minutes or until the berries are just ready to break. Then pour them into a shallow pan and set them in the sun for 2 or 3 days, depending upon how thick you want the syrup. Stir occasionally each day while in the sun. When the syrup is thick enough and hot from the sunshine put into sterilized jars or glasses and seal. (Cover pans with gauze while out of doors!)

Marion Race Car Has Mechanical Trouble

The semi-stock racer owned by Jack and Elmore Chivington of Marion was forced out of the 100-lap national championship at Winchester, Ind. yesterday after throwing a rod. The car driven by Lou Harold of Lima, was running third in the twenty-fifth lap, when engine trouble developed.

Avery McAdams of New Castle, Ind. finished in first place, taking the lead after Art Holland, Columbus driver cracked up in the eighty-seventh lap.

Holland was reported to be in serious condition this morning.

The motor of the Chivington car was completely wrecked and a new one is being installed in it for the race at Powell Speedway tomorrow.

Harold qualified as the sixth fastest semi-stock racer in the United States.

Of the 37 cars that started only 17 finished.

There are some 60 varieties of celery cultivated in the United States.

BLINDING CLOUD BANK CAUSES ICELAND CRACKUP

By The Associated Press

REYKJAVIK, ICELAND, May 31—Icelandic airways officials suggested today that a blinding cloud bank caused the crash of a DC-3 plane which struck a mountainside in northern Iceland Thursday, killing all 25 occupants.

Among the victims was a member of the Icelandic althing (parliament), Gardar Thorsteinsson. Ten women and children were among the 21 passengers. The craft, a two-engined Dakota, carried a crew of four.

The plane disappeared on a flight from Reykavik to Akureyri (Akreyri) a town on the northern Iceland coast. Search parties found the wreckage and the bodies yesterday on a steep slope of Hjedinsfjoerdur mountain, near the sea.

The ski trails and ruins in Rustler Park, 175 miles east of Tucson, Ariz., lie in sight of desert sand and cactus thousands of feet below the snowy mountains.

war-time President and the British Prime Minister in a secret rendezvous on the wide expanse of the ocean clearly enunciated the aspirations and hopes of all free peoples. That unwritten document which set forth the four freedoms is destined to live in the annals of history alongside the Magna Charta and our own Declaration of Independence.

"There is a spiritual maxim that we must bleed if we would bless. In less than two centuries of our national existence again and again we have planted the flowers of self-sacrifice and the blood of American heroes has been shed for the cause of freedom and the democracy on the battlefields of America and Europe and Africa and Asia and the far-flung islands of the Pacific from Pearl Harbor and Guadalcanal to Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

"Our heroes are immortal in the fruitfulness of their self-sacrifice and their memory shall give forth a hallowed fragrance at family hearth-stones and in countrysides throughout the land forever."

WORLD PAYS HOMAGE TO U.S. WAR DEAD

By The Associated Press

Men of all stations in the United States and the far-flung places of the globe paid tribute yesterday to America's soldier dead.

"We shall never forget them," said President Manuel Roxas of the Philippines in Manila, summing up the feelings of the thousands who gathered in the quiet cemeteries from Anzio beach to Guam.

Among those pausing in tribute at 200,000 American graves in Europe were Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, Prime Minister Pierre Dupong of Luxembourg and French Priemer Paul Ramadier.

In America speakers urged continued vigilance and preparedness. President Truman spent a quiet day "catching up on his work" in the nation's capital and his wreath was laid at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery by an aide.

Friends and neighbors of the late President Roosevelt gathered at his grave for a service at which Secretary of War Patterson said "men in every land will take heart" if the United States does its utmost to "achieve, prove and promote democracy."

Pleas for vigilance were voiced abroad by American military leaders, among them Gen. Lucius D. Clay at Hamm, Germany; Maj. Gen. William Chase in Tokyo and Maj. Gen. James Lester, at Kokura, Japan.

NEW YORK

Queens, died at Queens General hospital.

The CAB timed the crash at 7:05 p. m. (EST).

Investigators found the plane's brake marks on the runway. Study of the terrain indicated that from that point the plane crashed throuh a wire fence, hit a stone curbing, hurtled over the parkway and cutdown a lamp post as it crossed, crashed through a wire fence on the other side of the road, and burst into flames in a ditch.

Brake marks also were found on a grassy plot across the parkway.

The plane was quickly enveloped in flames after it hit the ditch. The flames were fed by gasoline spilled from ruptured wing tanks as the left wing was torn from the fuselage and the right wing crumpled against concrete blocks.

The survivors escaped through emergency doors.

HUNGARY NAMES NEW GOVERNMENT CHIEF

By The Associated Press

BUDAPEST, May 31—The Hungarian cabinet announced today that Lajos Dinnyes, 46-year-old ministed of war, had been chosen premier to succeed Ferenc Nagy, who resigned two days ago while on vacation in Switzerland.

The cabinet also announced that Istvan Kertesz, recently named minister to Rome, had been appointed to replace Foreign Minister Janos Gyongyosi, whose pro-western views have been opposed by left-wind parties.

It said that new national elections would be held in September.

Reports circulated, meanwhile, that the Communists, having forced Nagy from office, had turned the pressure on President Zoltan Tildy in continuation of what some informants said was a determined drive to turn Hungary into a police state.

Appointment of Dinnyes to the premiership surprised parliamentary circles. Persons close to cabinet members said that up to this morning Imre Oltvanyi, former president of the national bank, had been the Communist choice for the post and therefore the most likely candidate.

The informants said Oltvanyi had been turned down at the last minute in a message from the Russians, who have occupation troops in Hungary. They declared that it was too early to learn the real reason for the Russian veto, but first reports in parliament were that it was because Itvania was of Swab (German) origin and had served in the intelligence section of the Hungarian army which fought the Russians.

By The Associated Press

The nation entered the second day of the extended Memorial day weekend holiday with a death toll of at least 194 persons as a result of accidents, with two airplane crashes accounting for more than half of the total.

The plane crackups in New York Thursday night and at Port Deposit, Md., yesterday cost the lives of 94 persons, while other violent deaths of miscellaneous couses since Thursday evening boosted the total to 111.

The toll on the highway, normally the heaviest during a holiday period, was 58, while 25 persons lost their lives by drowning. The National Safety Council had estimated that 275 persons would be killed in motor mishaps over the three-day period.

Indiana led the nation in traffic fatalities with 10, including six members of a wedding party in a train-auto collision in Lake county. The dead included the bride and groom, the bride's parents and her brother and sister.

In the four-day Memorial day holiday last year there were 292 violent deaths, including 164 traffic fatalities.

the plane, and clothing strewn pitifully from tree branches, said the debris was scattered for hundreds of yards.

Piloting the DC4, which left Newark at 4:55 p. m. and was last reported by the Philadelphia control tower at 6:27 p. m., was 40-year-old William E. Coney of Miami, who during the war was commander of the Navy's famous Mars flying boat.

K. V. Willingham of Miami was co-pilot, Theodore Lindstrom of Newark was purser, and Helena M. O'Brien of Newark was the stewardess.

Clutches Throttle Handle

A body, believed to be that of Captain Coney, was found clutching a piece of metal which state troopers said "probably" was the throttle handle.

Rescuers told of finding the mutilated body of a woman clutching the body of a baby. They were identified by Michael Rosenberg of Newark as his sister, Mrs. Edward Stuart of Miami, and her year-old son, Michael.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Bausch of Orange, N. J., enroute to Florida on their honeymoon, also were listed among the dead.

Another reported victim was Norman MacKay, commercial manager of radio station WBAY at Coral Gables, Fla., who friends said was the flight as a guest of EAL.

Other Passengers Named

Among others identified by relatives from the passenger list made public by EAL were:

Mrs. Bertha Kelman, 53, of Bridgeport, Conn., who was enroute to Miami to attend the wedding of her daughter, Estelle

P. J. Rosengarten, Perth Amboy, N. Y., merchant, who was flying to visit his father, ill in a Miami hospital.

Mrs. Mary Kalarman, 38, of Union City, N. J., enroute to Miami to attend the funeral of her mother.

Jules Gan, 36, of Brooklyn, rejoining his wife and two small children in Miami.

Mrs. Frances Bendzunas, 26, of Flushing, N. Y., a bride of two weeks who was going to Panama to join her Navy husband.

Descriptive of the force of the crash was the report of farmer George McMillen, who said he was watching the plane when he saw a flash of light.

Like Turkey Buzzards

"Pieces of the thing flew up into the sky like turkey buzzards taking to the air," said McMillen.

The CAB officials who witnessed the crash were Col. Robert Garrett, senior air carrier accident investigator, and John Chamberlain, assistant director of the safety bureau. They and two other officials were in a government DC-3 enroute to Washington from La Guardia Field, New York.

Edward E. Slattery Jr., CAB chief of information, who also was aboard, said Garrett and Chamberlain saw the ship "nose down in a very steep angle and go into the ground some three to five miles in front of them."

MARION WINS TWO, LOSES ONE TO GAIN ON ZANESVILL

Cubs Invade Dodger Territory Tonight for 3-Game Struggle

By JIM DARBY

Marion celebrated the Memorial day holiday by gaining a game on the Ohio State league-leading Dodgers, beating Newark here Thursday night and splitting with Lima yesterday. The Dodgers meanwhile lost two.

The Cubs are still in third place, half a game behind Springfield, also winners Thursday night and splitters yesterday.

Two new local pitchers turned in impressive wins over the holiday and gave strong indications they may join Edington and Rosin as starting pitchers.

The Bruins invade the Dodgers' territory for a single game tonight and a doubleheader tomorrow. If they can lick their road trip jinx—two won, seven lost this season—they have a chance to bounce back into the top spot which they held earlier in the season.

They'll be in Newark Monday and Tuesday with a doubleheader set Tuesday. Wednesday they return to Lincoln park for a make-up tilt with Lima.

Lefty Jim Sabens Whips Lima 10-2, Pitching 5-Hitter

Lefty Jim Sabens and the Marion Cubs entertained a holiday crowd of 1,585 last night at Lincoln Park, sending the Lima Terriers home on the short end of a 10-2 score.

The new Cub southpaw hurled five-hit ball in his first home appearance, which was also his first starting assignment. He pitched a little as a reliefer on the recent road trip.

He's five-feet, ten inches tall, weighs 160 and joined the club from the Hutchinson, Kan., outfit. This is the first year in pro ball for the 23-year-old veteran of high school playing at his home town of Arcola, Ill.

A double in the eighth inning followed by a single robbed him of a shutout. Two walks and a single in the ninth added the second Lima run.

The Cubs clubbed two Lima pitchers for 14 hits including a smash over the left field wall by Sabens in the fourth inning. Hitting left-handed pitching, Sabens put a terrific clout over the left field fence, too solid a smash to garner $5 and not quite enough to clear the $25 sign in left center.

Bruin runners crossed the plate twice in the first, once in the fourth, three times in the fifth, twice in the sixth and once each in the seventh and eighth.

Manager Nelson Burbring sent his batting average climbing to a neat, rounded .400 with four singles in five trips to the plate. He swelled his runs batted in column to 33 with two more markers, being robbed of still an-

Newark Surprises Zanesville With 4-1, 3-2 Triumphs

By The Associated Press

Newark displayed surprising strength in winning both ends of a Memorial Day doubleheader from the Ohio State baseball league leaders, the Zanesville Dodgers.

The Newark Browns won the opener at Zanesville 4 to 1 as southpaw Carl Yerkes scattered the Dodgers' nine hits. In the nightcap at Newark, the Browns edged the Dodgers 3 to 2 when Mike Bernadette singled pitcher Bill Woolard home.

Two slugging matches between Dayton and Springfield ended with honors even. The Dayton Indians won the opener 13 to 1 and the Giants recouped by winning the nightcap 10 to 3.

In a 10-inning game at Muncie, the Richmond Roses pushed over two runs to defeat the Packers 7-6. The lights went out on the nightcap at Richmond and forced suspension of the game at the start of the sixth inning Richmond was leading 4 to 0. Although more than the required four and a half innings had been played, the umpire and management announced the game would be resumed at the point of suspension June 10 at Richmond.

Mauri Rose Wins Annual Indianapolis Motor Race

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31—Maurie Rose of Chicago, a confident little guy with a black moustache and a big pipe, was down in the books today as a second-time winner in the 31st annual 500-mile race at Indianapolis motor speedway, but the first two places should have been labeled "Lou Moore entry."

Rose and Bill Holland of Bridgeport, Conn., the No. 2 finisher, drove identical new four-cylinder cars owned by Lou Moore of Ventura, Calif., and called the Blue Crown Spark Plug specials.

Holland appeared headed for certain victory in his first speedway start as the last few laps were reeled off. Then Moore's pit crew waved a blackboard marked "ezy" and Rose passed Holland with only 17 miles to be run. Afterward there was loud talk behind the garage doors and Holland looked definitely unhappy.

Rose, going into the winner's pen, said he won only because Holland was slowed by engine trouble at the end. But Moore said there was no engine trouble—that he meant to signal both cars to take it easy because they were well ahead of the field and he wanted them to finish.

The race, second fastest since the holiday event was inaugurated in 1911, cost the life of William (Shorty) Cantlon, veteran Indianapolis driver who finished second to Billy Arnold in 1930. Cantlon, 43-year-old bachelor and used car dealer, smacked the wall coming out of the southwest turn, trying to avoid a mixup that occurred when Holland skidded into the grass along the inside the track.

The amazing Ted Horn of Paterson, N. J., driving the Maserati in which Wilbur Shaw twice won the race, claimed third money.

Cliff Bergere of Toledo, O., 50-year-old veteran of 16 Indianapolis races, took fourth place.

Jimmy Jackson of Indianapolis, second last year in his first "500," finished fifth. Rex Mays, Glendale, Calif., was sixth; newcomer Walt Brown, Massapequa, N. Y., seventh; Cy Marshall, Jacksonville, Fla., eighth; Fred Agabashian, another first-timer from Albany, Calif., ninth, and Duke Dinsmore, Osborne, O., tenth.

"SHORTY" WILLIAM CANTLON
Meets Death in Race

Only 12 cars of the 30 starters were still running at the end.

Rose's winning speed was 116.338 miles an hour, second only to the late Floyd Roberts' 117.2 in 1938. The seven leaders all averaged more than 100 miles an hour.

Connie Mack's Club Breathing Rarified Ozone of Fifth Place

By The Associated Press

Long-suffering Connie Mack clubs are dusting off their charters and rounding up forgotten brethren to celebrate the Philadelphia A's spurt into the thin air of fifth place in the American league.

The A's not only are in Fifth place, but they're only a half a game back of the Boston Red Sox, the weakly defending champions.

Two straight shutout wins over the New York Yankees have focused baseball attention on the Macks who are only a game below the .500 mark in the won and lost department.

Pitching Does It

Pitching has been the answer to the Philadelphia success story which must have surprised even Mr. Mack himself. Pitching and the fine play of first baseman Ferris Fain, a Pacific coast league rookie who is hitting .297 and the all-around work of shortstop Eddie Joost.

Dick Fowler and freshman Joe Coleman teamed up on the Yanks yesterday in one of the eight doubleheaders that attracted a banner turnout of 283,530 fans. Fowler nosed out Spud Chandler, 1-0, in the opener although the A's touched Chandler for only three hits. Coleman gave up nine hits in the second win, 4-0 stretching New York's scoreless inning string to 21. It was a first win for Coleman, who prepped at Toronto.

Detroit muffed a chance to lengthen its lead considerably by splitting with St. Louis. After Hal Newhouser defeated the Brownies for the 14th straight time over a three-year stretch, 21, the Tigers succumbed to Nels Potters wiles in the finale, 8-3.

Cleveland In Second

Cleveland slid into second place by thumping Chicago twice, 8-4 in a slugfest and 9-1. The venerable Mel Harder started his 20th season with a five-hitter in the second game, win No. 218 of his career.

The Boston Red Sox spent an unhappy holiday in Washington losing two games to the Senators who routed Tex Hughson 13-6, and eked out a 5-3 nod over Joe Dobson in the finale. Sid Hudson and Mickey Haefner were the Washington victors with the help of six Sox errors.

National league activities again were highlighted by the Giants who swept two from the Philadelphia Phils, 7-1 and 5-3, to take a one-game lead in the tight race.

Warren Spahn preserved his unbeaten string, adding an eighth straight for Boston in their 6-3 first game success over Brooklyn. The Braves also took the second half, 3-0. The double win boosted Boston into a second-place tie

inch Hit Tumbles Cubs -2 in Afternoon Game

Special to The Star

A pitcher, doubling in the role pinch hitter, cost Marion a game yesterday afternoon at Lima.

With the score tied at 2-all in last of the ninth, and two men base, Strahs was sent in to hit for Paul. He clouted the pitch off Ed Witowski for a run and the ball game, 5-2.

Hensley started things for Lima a first inning home run over 287-foot right field wall. Strahs homer was also over the fence.

Marion tied it up and went ead in the fifth when Nelson was safe on Huddleston's error, Adams walked and Witowski's forced Adams at second. Nelson taking third. Hollingshead then grounded to the pitcher, Nelson scoring, Witowski taking second.

Then, trying to pick Witowski off second, Voss threw the ball into centerfield, Witowski taking third. Smith's grounder hit third base, bouncing over Kowalski's head to score Witowski.

Two hits and a wild pitch put Lima back into the game in the seventh, setting the stage for Strahs' home run game-winner.

Polar Bears Watch New Pitcher Win

Thursday night the bedrock core of Marion fandom — 526 ice-veined hardies — endured 37-degree temperature to watch "Jitts" Lawrence do very nicely in his first pitching appearance for Marion.

Lawrence scattered six hits to win easily 8-3 as his teammates took advantage of the wildness of Newark's Elliott, who also pitched six-hit ball but gave up eight walks and committed a run-costing wild pitch.

Lawrence, an 18-year-old graduate of American Legion baseball, came to the local club from the class C Clinton, Iowa, outfit. He played ball for Jamesville of the Wisconsin State class D league last year.

A right-hander, he's five feet ten, weighs 170 and hails from Waukesha, Wis.

His nickname, he says, was hung on him by his Legion teammates in tribute toward a tendency to get the "jitters."

Since word of his keyboard talent has spread, Dick has been frequently asked to "sit in" on jam sessions with jazzmen here. Johnny Guarnieri, a top jazz pianist, says that Dick's piano virtuosity ranks with that of the best jazzmen in the field.

Legless Illinois Farmer Can Still Keep His Hand In

By The Associated Press

HERRIN, Ill.—Lester Ogden has no legs but he's working a 70-acre southern Illinois farm.

The 37-year-old World War II amputee has turned the seemingly impossible trick with an assist from two gadget-minded mechanics who rigged a regular tractor so Ogden runs it only with his two hands.

Ogden admitted a bit of difficulty at first in operating the vehicle but has no trouble now. He straps himself to the seat with a leather belt and, in his own words, "Lets her go."

He held a technician fifth grade rating as a radio operator and has a Purple Heart and several battle stars of which he is reluctant to talk. He lost his legs on a Pacific island in 1944. His legs were amputated too near his body to permit artificial legs, he said.

Ogden also drives an automobile especially rigged for him by himself and his brother Howard. He gets around in a wheelchair that he takes with him in the car. He has an outboard motor boat for fishing, but he takes a companion along to lug the motor.

In addition to tilling the land, he also is feeding 17 cattle.

Ogden said that after his crops are in he plans to open an automobile service station.

VICTIMS

in no cases were faces recognizable. Many of the bodies were burned, many dismembered and none entirely whole, he said.

Capt. Raymond W. Murray, senior medical officer at the training center; Capt. John A. Walsh, senior dental officers, and Dr. H. K. Edwards, chief medical examiner for Eastern airlines, joined Dr. Dodson in the weary task of identifying bodies.

Bodies Numbered

As a body was identified, it was given a number and the examiners passed on to another.

Dr. Dodson said he hoped that relatives, who were arriving in increasing numbers, would agree to the mass burial and that it might take place within a few days.

Meanwhile, miles away from the improvised morgue, civil aeronautics board officials and representatives of EAL tried to put together the story of how disaster came to the big DC-4 which early last evening took off from Newark bound for Miami.

A score of eyewitnesses told investigators that the tail section tore off the four-engine plane just before it crashed.

At mid-morning first groups of relatives started arriving at the Navy base to attempt identification of victims and claim their bodies.

They congregated on the porch of the service club at the recruit reception center.

Among the first to arrive were Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Katz of Freeport, L. I., relatives of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Katz of North Bergen, N. J., two of the victims.

On Way to Vacation

Louis and Abe Fein of New York came looking for their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack London. They identified him as a Manhattan real estate man. The Londons were on the way to Miami for a vacation.

Ira B. and Isadore Jacobson, brothers-in-law, sought to claim the body of Philip Rosengarten, 45, of Perth Amboy, N. J.

Navy dentists stationed at the base started interviewing the kinfolk in an attempt to [illegible] identities through [illegible] icated to their memory, and many have found that their "widows" remarried long ago.

Numerous mistakes are attributed to the fact that under the Japanese Shinto religion the deceased are cremated and the family keeps the ashes. In battle areas, many men were cremated together and the ashes indiscriminately placed in urns for shipment home. Under this system, the names of many missing men were included among the dead.

Common names complicated the problem. In the Tokyo office there are more than 300 urns bearing only the name Minoru Tanaka, and 475 with the name Kiyoshi Dato.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

KATHARINE quirked a warning eyebrow at me, and I knew she wished me to ignore Mary's gibe about the straitjacket. But I already had shared her reaction to the little speech, and so pretended not to have heard it.

"I want to caution you again about Noel," I said. "Remember, the one thing we want is to get Noel back into his routine of work. But, first, we must reassure him about you."

"He has been terribly frightened about you," I went on.

"You mean that I scared the living daylights out of him last night," she said, and I wondered from what depths of courage she had summoned her gamin grin.

"Have it your own way," I told her, with an answering smile. "But that means we must not present him with too complete a recovery today."

"If you'll give me the script," she said saucily, "I'll try to read it convincingly. But I'm not up to improvising."

"I'm going to sound the Cassandra note," I told her. "Before he comes in here, I'm going to tell him the truth as Dr. Twitchell has given it to me."

Interest quickened in Mary's expressive face. "I'd love to hear that," she said.

I salved my conscience with the reflection that I had not promised to tell "the truth, and nothing but the truth."

Much Improved

"It's yours for the asking," I said. "Dr. Twitchell says that you are much improved this morning; so much that he is permitting you to sit up part of the day, to see Noel this morning, and—if you are not too tired—again this evening. Above everything else, he is going to let you study your lines."

Is that all he said?" she asked, with a disappointed note in her voice. "He told me those things this morning."

"I know he did," I said. "But he didn't tell Noel, an I didn't have time, when Noel gave me the flowers, to say anything except an assurance that you were better. I'll go into it more fully when I see him," I added, neglecting to say that I already had told Noel of Dr. Twitchell's indulgence concerning the study of her lines. There were embellishments I wished to add to that statement, and I knew I could warn Noel not to give Mary the exact time when he had received my information.

Nerves Still Jittery

"But," I went on, "I must impress on Noel the warning which Dr. Twitchell gave me; that, while you are much improved, your nerves are still jittery, and that you must have very little company.

"The rest will be up to you," I said. "If you can manage to make him think that the best help he can give you will be for him to keep on with his work as usual, then Aunt Katharine and I will be reasonably certain that we won't have Noel on our hands as a patient within the next twenty-four hours or less."

Mary dimpled and smiled, and again I marveled at the "act" she was putting on, masking such depths of sinister turgid thought.

"I promise you that he will be putting in my slender hands," she said dramatically, and then gave me an impish wink.

"I'll be seventeen Delilahs rolled into one, but I won't click my scissors once," she went on, and I smiled indulgently at her.

"You'll do all right," I assured her, "and now I'll telephone your anxious husband."

I left the door open as I went to the telephone, but was not surprised when Katharine, with apparent casualness, shut it after me. I knew I could depend on her to do the same thing when Noel should come to the door.

Noel answered the telephone in his father's apartment, and I knew that the must have stationed himself by the instrument as soon as he had finished his breakfast.

"Is is all right for me to come down now?" he asked breathlessly.

"What sort of breakfast did you eat?" I countered with mock severity.

"A good one," he said, "I wasn't hungry, but I knew you'd ask that. Everybody here will bear me out."

"I'll take your word," I told him, "and hurry down."

The jail at Hillgrove in Western Australia is a hollowed-out tree which measures 50 feet around and accommodates one prisoner. Most prisoners spend only one night in the "bottle tree."
